

Feb 2019

Good Morning

Hello, good morning, good afternoon or good evening!

I remember once telling someone "good morning " and they replied: "What's good about it?"

Such a response could indicate that the person could be waking up each day expecting the same negative things that happened yesterday repeating themselves.

No time for breakfast; dashing for the bus and missing it or anticipating the horrendous traffic jam and the inevitable frustrated arrival at work. What a start to the day!

This may not feel like a good start to the day to most people, but if we choose to look at the day more closely we could find a lot of good things.

PRAYER

Father God, sometimes we cannot see the beautiful trees that are in the forest, because of the forest itself. I pray therefore that you will help us to make a clearing in our minds and hearts so that we will see the beauty that is beyond all that is blocking our vision.

Help us to see the blessing of being alive, the blessing of a new day and Your never ending goodness and love. They are new every morning.

Amen

I hope that you will come back and join us next time.

Phyllis Brown

MEM@ntcgnorthampton.org.uk